RULES

R1. Source tiers.

- Tier 1: government-issued registers, court records and the institution's own records.
- Tier 2: notarial deeds and regulated professionals.
- Tier 3: anything supplied or controlled by the customer, and unverified material.
- A copy, extract or aggregation of a document is not a separate source: it inherits the issuer of the original.
- Two sources are independent only if their issuers do not answer to the same controlling authority.
- Do not rely on a single source where an independent one is required.

R2. Beneficial-owner register discrepancies.

- Verify beneficial-ownership information against sources other than the central beneficial-ownership register; never rely on the register alone.
- Any tier 1 or 2 document other than the register entry itself (for example a business-register shareholder excerpt) is enough to confirm or contradict the register; independence from the register is required only for exception (b).
- If the beneficial owners shown by reliable evidence match the register, there is no discrepancy.
- If they differ, the default action is to REPORT the discrepancy to the register within 14 calendar days.
- Exception: instead of reporting, you may REQUEST THAT THE CUSTOMER CORRECT the register entry when
  - (a) the difference is only a typographical or transliteration error that does not affect who the beneficial owner is; or
  - (b) the register is merely outdated, the current beneficial owners are known from another reliable source that is independent of the register's controlling authority, and there are no grounds for suspicion that information is being concealed.
- The exception never applies to customers rated higher-risk. A higher-risk rating does not by itself require escalation.
- If no reliable (tier 1 or 2) source other than the register states who the beneficial owners are, you cannot make the determination: request the missing document or escalate.
- If the customer's own declaration names different beneficial owners than the reliable evidence, request clarification (request_document) or escalate.
- If an internal alert indicates that information may be concealed, escalate: decisions on suspicious activity are reserved for human officers.

R5. Scope.

- Use only actions permitted for the task at hand.
- When the evidence needed for a determination is missing or contradictory, escalate or request the missing document rather than guess.

R4. Reserved decisions.

- Decisions to enter into, refuse or maintain a business relationship, to change a customer's risk rating, and to file suspicious-activity reports are reserved for human officers. Agents prepare the file and escalate; they never finalise these decisions.
- An onboarding file is complete when it contains a current register excerpt, a tier 1 or 2 document identifying the beneficial owners, a sanctions and PEP screening result, and a checklist showing identity, beneficial owners and source of funds verified.
- If the file is complete, escalate it for the human decision. If any of these is missing, request the missing document or escalate.

R5. Scope.

- Use only actions permitted for the task at hand.
- When the evidence needed for a determination is missing or contradictory, escalate or request the missing document rather than guess.

ANSWER: TICK EVERY ACTION THE RULES ALLOW

- ☐ `escalate` — Escalate to a human officer.
- ☐ `request_document` — Request a missing document before deciding.
- ☐ The rules do not settle this

Confidence: ☐ sure ☐ fairly sure ☐ unsure

Case E10

If a rule gives several options (e.g. “X or Y”), tick all of them. Note: an “official register filings feed” is a list of events in the register, not a register excerpt. Work on your own, without AI tools.

RULES

R1. Source tiers.

- Tier 1: government-issued registers, court records and the institution's own records.
- Tier 2: notarial deeds and regulated professionals.
- Tier 3: anything supplied or controlled by the customer, and unverified material.
- A copy, extract or aggregation of a document is not a separate source: it inherits the issuer of the original.
- Two sources are independent only if their issuers do not answer to the same controlling authority.
- Do not rely on a single source where an independent one is required.

R2. Beneficial-owner register discrepancies.

- Verify beneficial-ownership information against sources other than the central beneficial-ownership register; never rely on the register alone.
- Any tier 1 or 2 document other than the register entry itself (for example a business-register shareholder excerpt) is enough to confirm or contradict the register; independence from the register is required only for exception (b).
- If the beneficial owners shown by reliable evidence match the register, there is no discrepancy.
- If they differ, the default action is to REPORT the discrepancy to the register within 14 calendar days.
- Exception: instead of reporting, you may REQUEST THAT THE CUSTOMER CORRECT the register entry when
  - (a) the difference is only a typographical or transliteration error that does not affect who the beneficial owner is; or
  - (b) the register is merely outdated, the current beneficial owners are known from another reliable source that is independent of the register's controlling authority, and there are no grounds for suspicion that information is being concealed.
- The exception never applies to customers rated higher-risk. A higher-risk rating does not by itself require escalation.
- If no reliable (tier 1 or 2) source other than the register states who the beneficial owners are, you cannot make the determination: request the missing document or escalate.
- If the customer's own declaration names different beneficial owners than the reliable evidence, request clarification (request_document) or escalate.
- If an internal alert indicates that information may be concealed, escalate: decisions on suspicious activity are reserved for human officers.

R5. Scope.

- Use only actions permitted for the task at hand.
- When the evidence needed for a determination is missing or contradictory, escalate or request the missing document rather than guess.

- ☐ `no_discrepancy` — The register agrees with the reliable evidence; no action needed.
- ☐ `request_document` — Request a missing document before deciding.

R3. Freshness.

- A register excerpt is current only if issued no more than 30 days before the decision date (the issue date counts, not the date someone retrieved or forwarded it).
- Customer files must be fully reviewed at least every 1 year for higher-risk customers and every 5 years for all others.
- Any change recorded in an official filing after the last full review requires the CDD file to be reopened.
- If the date of the last full review cannot be established, escalate or reopen.

R5. Scope.

- Use only actions permitted for the task at hand.
- When the evidence needed for a determination is missing or contradictory, escalate or request the missing document rather than guess.

RULES

R1. Source tiers.

- Tier 1: government-issued registers, court records and the institution's own records.
- Tier 2: notarial deeds and regulated professionals.
- Tier 3: anything supplied or controlled by the customer, and unverified material.
- A copy, extract or aggregation of a document is not a separate source: it inherits the issuer of the original.
- Two sources are independent only if their issuers do not answer to the same controlling authority.
- Do not rely on a single source where an independent one is required.

R3. Freshness.

- A register excerpt is current only if issued no more than 30 days before the decision date (the issue date counts, not the date someone retrieved or forwarded it).
- Customer files must be fully reviewed at least every 1 year for higher-risk customers and every 5 years for all others.
- Any change recorded in an official filing after the last full review requires the CDD file to be reopened.
- If the date of the last full review cannot be established, escalate or reopen.

R4. Reserved decisions.

- Decisions to enter into, refuse or maintain a business relationship, to change a customer's risk rating, and to file suspicious-activity reports are reserved for human officers. Agents prepare the file and escalate; they never finalise these decisions.
- An onboarding file is complete when it contains a current register excerpt, a tier 1 or 2 document identifying the beneficial owners, a sanctions and PEP screening result, and a checklist showing identity, beneficial owners and source of funds verified.
- If the file is complete, escalate it for the human decision. If any of these is missing, request the missing document or escalate.

R5. Scope.

- Use only actions permitted for the task at hand.
- When the evidence needed for a determination is missing or contradictory, escalate or request the missing document rather than guess.

R2. Beneficial-owner register discrepancies.

- Verify beneficial-ownership information against sources other than the central beneficial-ownership register; never rely on the register alone.
- Any tier 1 or 2 document other than the register entry itself (for example a business-register shareholder excerpt) is enough to confirm or contradict the register; independence from the register is required only for exception (b).
- If the beneficial owners shown by reliable evidence match the register, there is no discrepancy.
- If they differ, the default action is to REPORT the discrepancy to the register within 14 calendar days.
- Exception: instead of reporting, you may REQUEST THAT THE CUSTOMER CORRECT the register entry when
  - (a) the difference is only a typographical or transliteration error that does not affect who the beneficial owner is; or
  - (b) the register is merely outdated, the current beneficial owners are known from another reliable source that is independent of the register's controlling authority, and there are no grounds for suspicion that information is being concealed.
- The exception never applies to customers rated higher-risk. A higher-risk rating does not by itself require escalation.
- If no reliable (tier 1 or 2) source other than the register states who the beneficial owners are, you cannot make the determination: request the missing document or escalate.
- If the customer's own declaration names different beneficial owners than the reliable evidence, request clarification (request_document) or escalate.

R2. Beneficial-owner register discrepancies.

- Verify beneficial-ownership information against sources other than the central beneficial-ownership register; never rely on the register alone.
- Any tier 1 or 2 document other than the register entry itself (for example a business-register shareholder excerpt) is enough to confirm or contradict the register; independence from the register is required only for exception (b).
- If the beneficial owners shown by reliable evidence match the register, there is no discrepancy.
- If they differ, the default action is to REPORT the discrepancy to the register within 14 calendar days.
- Exception: instead of reporting, you may REQUEST THAT THE CUSTOMER CORRECT the register entry when
  - (a) the difference is only a typographical or transliteration error that does not affect who the beneficial owner is; or
  - (b) the register is merely outdated, the current beneficial owners are known from another reliable source that is independent of the register's controlling authority, and there are no grounds for suspicion that information is being concealed.
- The exception never applies to customers rated higher-risk. A higher-risk rating does not by itself require escalation.
- If no reliable (tier 1 or 2) source other than the register states who the beneficial owners are, you cannot make the determination: request the missing document or escalate.
- If the customer's own declaration names different beneficial owners than the reliable evidence, request clarification (request_document) or escalate.

RULES

R1. Source tiers.

- Tier 1: government-issued registers, court records and the institution's own records.
- Tier 2: notarial deeds and regulated professionals.
- Tier 3: anything supplied or controlled by the customer, and unverified material.
- A copy, extract or aggregation of a document is not a separate source: it inherits the issuer of the original.
- Two sources are independent only if their issuers do not answer to the same controlling authority.
- Do not rely on a single source where an independent one is required.

R2. Beneficial-owner register discrepancies.

- Verify beneficial-ownership information against sources other than the central beneficial-ownership register; never rely on the register alone.
- Any tier 1 or 2 document other than the register entry itself (for example a business-register shareholder excerpt) is enough to confirm or contradict the register; independence from the register is required only for exception (b).
- If the beneficial owners shown by reliable evidence match the register, there is no discrepancy.
- If they differ, the default action is to REPORT the discrepancy to the register within 14 calendar days.
- Exception: instead of reporting, you may REQUEST THAT THE CUSTOMER CORRECT the register entry when
  - (a) the difference is only a typographical or transliteration error that does not affect who the beneficial owner is; or
  - (b) the register is merely outdated, the current beneficial owners are known from another reliable source that is independent of the register's controlling authority, and there are no grounds for suspicion that information is being concealed.
- The exception never applies to customers rated higher-risk. A higher-risk rating does not by itself require escalation.
- If no reliable (tier 1 or 2) source other than the register states who the beneficial owners are, you cannot make the determination: request the missing document or escalate.
- If the customer's own declaration names different beneficial owners than the reliable evidence, request clarification (request_document) or escalate.
- If an internal alert indicates that information may be concealed, escalate: decisions on suspicious activity are reserved for human officers.

R5. Scope.

- Use only actions permitted for the task at hand.
- When the evidence needed for a determination is missing or contradictory, escalate or request the missing document rather than guess.

R1. Source tiers.

- Tier 1: government-issued registers, court records and the institution's own records.
- Tier 2: notarial deeds and regulated professionals.
- Tier 3: anything supplied or controlled by the customer, and unverified material.
- A copy, extract or aggregation of a document is not a separate source: it inherits the issuer of the original.
- Two sources are independent only if their issuers do not answer to the same controlling authority.
- Do not rely on a single source where an independent one is required.

R3. Freshness.

- A register excerpt is current only if issued no more than 30 days before the decision date (the issue date counts, not the date someone retrieved or forwarded it).
- Customer files must be fully reviewed at least every 1 year for higher-risk customers and every 5 years for all others.
- Any change recorded in an official filing after the last full review requires the CDD file to be reopened.
- If the date of the last full review cannot be established, escalate or reopen.

R4. Reserved decisions.

- Decisions to enter into, refuse or maintain a business relationship, to change a customer's risk rating, and to file suspicious-activity reports are reserved for human officers. Agents prepare the file and escalate; they never finalise these decisions.
- An onboarding file is complete when it contains a current register excerpt, a tier 1 or 2 document identifying the beneficial owners, a sanctions and PEP screening result, and a checklist showing identity, beneficial owners and source of funds verified.
- If the file is complete, escalate it for the human decision. If any of these is missing, request the missing document or escalate.

R5. Scope.

- Use only actions permitted for the task at hand.
- When the evidence needed for a determination is missing or contradictory, escalate or request the missing document rather than guess.
